SCOLDED HIS COLLEAGUES. The Postmaster General's Ruling.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, March 22, 1897. Speaker Reed has not authorized the statement that he will not appoint the other House Committees until the meeting of the regular session of Congress, next December. To all inquiries on the subject the Speaker has replied in substance that he has not decided the matter definitely. The improvements, churches, electric lights and a graded public school system of the substance that he has not decided the matter definitely. The properties allow me space in your valuations and a graded public school system with a magnificent Temperance by the paper to speck of an indicate the substance of the s bill any less protective to American interests. Senator Jones of Nevada, holds the balance of power between republicans and democrats in the committee, and he has only recently said mittee, and he has only recently said mi as he ever did Injurious amendments may be added on the floor of the Senate, but republicans do not expect such from the finance committee.

Looking straight at Sayres, Mr. Cannon said very slowly and distinctly:
"I have great confidence in my friend, but I would never shoot him for a prophet." Mr. Sayres joined in the shout of laughter. The House acted promptly upon the advice of Mr. Cannon, who was chairman of the Committee on Appropriations in the last House and who will account the sate of that school, has been here graduate of that school is in a prosperous condition and the parents of the children are gratified to have such an enture in the sate of that school is in a prosperous condition and the parents of the children are gratified to have such an enture gratified to have g osition in the present House and pass-d the appropriation bills that failed

Senator Allen, of Nebraska, undertook to give the republicans and democrats of the Senate, a scolding because the vacancies in the Senate Committees had not been filled, but he had no reply to make when Senator Chandler said: "Doesn't the Senator know that neither party has a majorit."
